Three times. Three days.

Te Katebonrara.

For three days after menstruation she does not wash. On fourth day she takes a Kakoko and going into the sea draws it between her thighs, with these words:

I Kea Kaũ Rau (2)
I Kea boiãrana (2)
Buti rio, buti rake.
Ko ria raona [redacted] Baon
Tao Karawa.
Ko itan riKaki
NKoe aine Jen Naene

She Then bites the kakoko: twists it up finds it 3 days round right ankle.
Te aonike!

(4-1)

Before going to bed The woman takes her mat across her knees and holding it with both hands she shakes it with these words: —

Kou tā roñoroño Iala. Aia ñaia.
Iala. Ñaia ñaona.

4.4

The woman must not wipe herself when the man has finished.

At sunrise she goes to bathe. Splashing water with right hand on her left arm she whispers as follows:-

This twice washing left arm, and once again washing right arm. The final movement is to scoop water over head with left hand :

To an air of Old Castile
Over the hills back again
And down to grey Seville.

Of fabulous renown
Where many an ancient castle stands
Watching an ancient town

Sing me a song of days
That a vagabond pleasure fills Thro' summer gold sunburnt haze
Back to the waiting hills.

And I will sing you a song
Of a place that I call my own
In a land my heart has cherished long
But never my eyes have known.

spirits. All save the first two were without senses.
Natibuñ and Nei Tsākea married + had children: Tsikawa, Nei Marena, Tsnao a wave, and Nei Kika an octopus.
Lastly a son Narean the younger.
Narean te Ikawa then left the earth never to return, having told Natibuñ and Narean the Younger to proceed with the creation of men.

2. Narean the Younger obeyed the orders of his father Natibuñ to go on with creation.
He went into the bowels of the earth where the slave spirits lay enchained in smokeroom and gave them sight, hearing, ~~mouths~~ speech and movement. The eel + the octopus were to lift heaven from earth. The ~~tribe~~ stingarees were to unstick it, + the waves were to soften and move it. Nareau overlooked the work.

3. When Heaven was in place four women created to hold it up: no feet. Riki's feet shrick off + he was laid across heaven, The Milky way.

4. Natibum died: Nareau took his eyes + made Sun + moon; his brain, the stars; his buried bones grew into the tree whence grew the Great Spirits. His flesh was scattered + made the rocks.

Worship of these beings. Notes thereon.

No fixed order of seniority: vague depended upon the accidents of the island.

To Keep in view. Conflicting statements of Stingray & Titinabine, etc. Titinabine from Samoa: Titinabine from Tarawa. We have land stingray & deep water stingray from Tarawa significance of this.

For Tabakea-Nareau chapter.

① Ref. Nui-Nonouti creation myth. War in wh. T-N won victory over Baraneku & Riiki — land against sea beings. Hints of this in modern Nonouti story when Riiki etc. hid from work & had to be brought. Note again both Tabakea & Nareau black, curly headed, small but skilful in war. ② Note again Nareau's rivalry with Auriaria as already shown in wrestling tales. ③ Fire story probably one of the most ancient of all folk memories. ④ Nareau even in Tongafiti myth went up: therefore anti-Thor? ⑤ Tabakea & Nareau closely bound together because N. sprang from very head of Nareau. Auriaria from alliance with a woman. ⑥ If Tabakea knew of N's treachery to Auriaria why did he hide it on two occasions? Because of one blood. ⑦ Why did N. go never to return? Because the Tongafiti gradually fused with Tarawa stock & preponderated.

(8.) On Tarawa Tab. collaborated in creation. Why? Because the Tongapiti invaders honoured him with Nareau for his help. On Banaba Tabakea was buried under the island? Why? Because Tongapiti did not reach Banaba + he was enslaved by Auriania.
