MUSICAL NOTES.

It is the intention of the Adelaide University to establish a musical examination centre at Broken Hill. For this purpose Mr. O. R. Hodge, the Registrar, left Adelaide by Thursday afternoon's express. He will probably spend some days in the silver city, remaining there until satisfactory arrangements have been made for a local committee and Secretary. It will be remembered that our University authorities, before taking this step, approached the Sydney University to ascertain whether any objection was entertained to their examining in music in the sister colony. Having received a satisfactory reply, and in response to many requests from resident musical folk in that town, it but remains for Mr. Hodge to make the final arrangements. This is a very gratifying tribute to the popularity of our examinations, which it will be remembered are also held in Hobart, Tasmania.

Broken Hill, April 18.

Dr. Dunne, Bishop of Wilcannia, from whom first came the suggestion that the Premiers of New South Wales and South Australia might arrange for the housing of the Barrier's destitute aged, orphans, deserted and neglected children, &c. in South Australia, intends to pass through Adelaide during the week. He will then, if possible, see Mr. Reid and Mr. Kingston on the subject. Dr. Dunne can speak from personal experience of the great disadvantage of the present system, under which it is necessary for the unfortunate subjects to be taken round to Sydney or remain a grievous burden to themselves and others here.

Mr. Charles Hodge, the Registrar of the Adelaide University is at present in Broken Hill making arrangements for the holding of the first examinations in theory and practice of music. A supervising committee is being organised.

A big parade of friendly societies, the A.M.A. Enginedrivers, and other bodies was held this afternoon in aid of the Friendly Societies' Council benevolent fund. A long procession went through the principal streets, thence to the Central Reserve, where speeches were delivered.
