

Year.—Harmony.—Professor Ives, Mus. Bac., and Mr. W. H. Wale, Mus. Bac. Time, 3 hours. 1. Add parts for a tenor, two altos, and a treble to the following bass, and figure the result. Use the proper clefs, and conclude with a force de piano. 2. Harmonise the following melody in four parts. Keep up the motion in one or other of the accompanying parts. Credit will be given for imitative writing. 3. Explain and give the derivation of the chord marked *.

4. On the subject given, write the first movement of a sonata for clarinet and strings. Give the melody indicated to the solo instrument. Only such portions of the movement as are non-essential should be abbreviated. State briefly in writing how you would propose to complete the unfinished portion (if any). 5. Which of the following chords is in the strongest position? Give your reasons with the reply. 6. How do you explain the note marked * in the following passage (Handel)? 7. Why are consecutions of perfect intervals prohibited in part-writing?

The minutes of the meeting of the council of December 13 were read, viz.:

The report of the education committee with respect to the Mus. Bac. examination was then considered, together with a confidential report from Professor Peterson, and the following correspondence:

- (a) Letters from Professor Ives.
- (b) Reply to Professor Ives from the Registrar.
- (c) Letter from Mr. Wale.
- (d) Letter from the third year Mus. Bac. students.

After hearing the whole of the evidence the council approved the action taken with respect to the examination papers and data sent to Professor Peterson. After considering Professor Peterson's report the following resolution was carried:

"That the council see no reason for departing from the result that the candidates have not passed."

It was also proposed that the candidates be allowed to present themselves for a supplementary examination in March. Upon being put to the vote this was lost, a majority of the council being of opinion that the students would be better off another year's study.

This resolution was taken on the advice of all the professional members of the council. In view of statements made by Professor Ives the council directed publication of the fact that the chancellor proposed the resolution to grant a new examination, which was defeated.

After full discussion of the new communications from Professor Peterson and Mr. Wale, the following resolution was put and carried unanimously:

The council having acted on the report of Professor Peterson that none of the candidates should pass, and having now received his suggestion that a second examination be set, resolves that a supplementary examination be held in the beginning of March for all the six candidates of the third year for the Mus. Bac. degree who appeared for examination in November.

The resolution of the council meeting of December 13 approving the action taken with respect to the examination papers and the data sent to Professor Peterson was read, and it was pointed out that the whole of the papers and correspondence connected with the third year were sent to Professor Peterson, and also a copy of the regulations, special attention being directed to No. ix, requiring a musical exercise after passing the examination for the third year before the degree could be granted. It was further pointed out that Professor Ives did not intimate to the education committee any wish or intention to supply any further report, nor did he suggest to them on December 2, or on any other occasion, that the pencil marks made by Mr. Wale should be rubbed out. His request that this should be done was made to the registrar on Thursday, December 5, and not to the committee. The council again expressed the opinion that no one had any right to efface Mr. Wale's notes on the examination papers, and that the whole of the documents unaltered were rightly submitted to Professor Peterson.
