

12th. June 1950.

My dear Chester,

I am sending^[K] the enclosed paper on the chance that you would find it of interest for Biometrics. I am afraid the tables are rather heavier than you usually like, and it might be that some other journal devoted to ecology or evolution would be more suitable. Anyway, do not hesitate to put to me any such difficulty. It will certainly be better understood in Biometrics than anywhere else that I know of.

Yours sincerely,
