

11th June, 1935

Whately Carington Esq.,
Calandstraat 64,
ROTTERDAM
Holland.

Dear Whately Carington.

I am afraid I have not given much time to your letters and problems. There is a serious difficulty in scoring the numbers of single successes since, though I think your expectation is right, the distribution of the numbers observed about this expectation seems to be an intricate problem, and surely any test of significance must depend on this.

Yours sincerely,