

3 July 1933.

Professor C.G. Darwin, F.R.S.,
4 Church Hill,
EDINBURGH.

Dear C.G.:

Many thanks for your letter on my appointment. It will be a funny department, especially at first, as they have divided off Statistics as a separate department. This will be much laughed at, as it is of course only on statistical subjects that I have anything to offer. I shall offer two courses to post-graduates, in order chiefly to see what the response is. Thanks for your hint about lecturing, it is well worth bearing in mind.

Yours sincerely,