

Don

30th January, 1958.

Dear Besse,

My complicated journeyings are for a time at an end and I can think back and thank you for the unfailing kindness with which you received me in Washington.

I am sending under separate cover an offprint from Sankhya of "The Underworld of Probability", being essentially the paper I gave to the Catholic University. I think the production is good, though they have evidently had some difficulties with the figures, e.g. the top line of Figure 1 indicating 100% is omitted, as is the indication that the upper limit in Figure 2 is what has been called the 1% Confidence Limit.

However, the printing and production is good, and I am rather sorry we did not accept their offer to produce Biometrics when some years ago the cost of that journal seemed to be excessive.

With much love,

Yours sincerely,
