

DEPARTMENT OF
ZOOLOGY AND COMPARATIVE ANATOMY.
UNIVERSITY MUSEUM, OXFORD.

Thursday.

14 July 1944 - JHB

My dear Ron,

I have been hunting for rooms, and am delighted to say that - at last - I have had success. The Mitre and a number of other Hotels all said that they were booked up until well into August. At last I tried the Golden Cross, an old-fashioned but rather famous old Inn, and they were able to manage the nights of the 24th, 25th & 26th. To my great regret they could only allow three nights. But I was thankful for Decided, from Heston, to cancel the Sociological Society meeting on the 21st, owing to chaos on the railways.

Something as I had begun to despair, and Urie is closed this month to the five the servants a holiday. They say, will you bring your own towel with you! You remember the circumstances: be sure to bring a change of clothes, as we may get wet, and boots, trousers &c suitable for working practically in a bog!

It will be splendid to see you. I only regret that I can get accommodation from Monday to Thursday (3 nights).

Yours ever,
Arthur.