

12th DEC:

DEPARTMENT OF
ZOOLOGY & COMPARATIVE ANATOMY, UNIVERSITY MUSEUM, OXFORD.

December 5th 1934.

about Frank's
last book 12/11/34
Monday

My dear Fisher,

I hope you will accept a copy of the revised 2nd edition of my little "Hendelism and Evolution", for it has benefited very much from the helpful criticism which you sent me when it first appeared. I kept your notes on it, and was delighted to have the chance of making use of them when a 2nd edition was called for (see especially the last paragraph on p. 85). As well as some other changes, I extended slightly my remarks on alterations in chromosome number (pp 23-24).

It was a great disappointment to me that I was not able to see you before or the following; I was in bed that day. Are you likely to be free, either in the morning or the afternoon, on Wednesday next week (12th)? If so, it would be a very great pleasure to see you. There are a number of things to discuss.

I could get to you at 11:30 or after (any time in fact up to 1, when I have promised to meet an old friend and be introduced to his future wife) or from 3 onwards.

Don't of course put yourself out or alter your engagements in any way but, if you could spare a little while that day, it would be a great pleasure to see you.

Yours sincerely,
L. B. Ford