

November 1, 1938

Dear Dr Fortuyn,

I am sorry that you should have received no reply to your letter of October 4th. Let me repeat that you will be extremely welcome when you are able to stay in London and join us at the Galton Laboratory.

The two hotels you mention are in a pleasant district, but you might find them unduly far from University College. I should think that you would obtain easily equivalent accommodation at one of the hotels within a few minutes of here.

Yours sincerely,