

福

DR A. B. DROOGLEEVER FORTUYN
Professor of Anatomy
Beiping Union Medical College
Peiping (Peking), China

London, November 8, 1942

Dear Dr. Fisher,

Thank you very much for having returned my scissors so quickly. They can not be replaced and nearly daily I make use of them.

I have looked up in my manuscript the question of linkage in regard to the kinky tail character. It seems likely (but I have no certain proof) that the kinky tail character is linked with the color factor, Kinky tails and white, and straight tails and black going together in my mice.

I presume that whenever you come to London your days are full of engagements, but in case on such an occasion you, or Mrs Fisher, or both of you could have luncheon with us we would be delighted. In that case, please, let me know in advance the date.

Thanking you again and with kind regards, also to Mrs Fisher

Sincerely yours

A. B. Droogleever Fortuyn

28 New Mansions Hotel, 38 Lancaster Gate, London W2