

16th February, 1955.

Dear Oscar,

All right, go ahead. I agree with all your suggestions except the last. I do not think the adjective "petty" is derogatory when applied to the Petty Officers of the Royal Navy. I suggest ~~that~~<sup>7</sup> to "the Officers carrying out the tests", for it is relevant that such tests are carried out under instruction by delegated authority, and are not acts of scientific induction, such as tests of significance are intended to facilitate.

Sincerely yours,

Enc.