

21st. May 1949.

Dear Caradog Jones,

I was very interested in Venn's big work on Cambridge Alumni, though I never found time to make the kind of study of it which I should have liked. I believe it will be of immense value, and particularly think that your suggestion of a study of class nobility should prove to be exceedingly fruitful. I should not imagine that it would be difficult to commence with a genuine random sample from Venn's volumes.

Yours sincerely,