

July 12, 1940

My dear Lacroix,

I am delighted to hear that you are in England, and hope you will find time to pay a visit to my Department out here in Harpenden.

We are 25 miles, which in these times usually takes nearly an hour from the L.M.S terminus at St. Pancras. Alternatively nearly all our trains now stop at Hendon, which would be nearer to you at Edgware than the London terminus.

If you can come down some morning, I should be most happy if you will lunch with us at my home in Harpenden.

Yours sincerely