

March 1, 1939

Dear Pearson,

Many thanks for the offprint. I think you must have come to much the same conclusion as I about Gosset's idea. In my obituary I call attention to the fact that he was certainly thinking of probability statements about μ , although, of course, he had not extricated himself from the ideas, as opposed to the methods, of inverse probability.

Yours sincerely,