My dear Riddell,

I am enclosing my paper with Corbet and Williams. Of course, the last has really been most energetic about the whole business, and has provided most of the illustrations.

Anything you thought worth publishing there would of course be very welcome in the Annals. I do not know for how long I shall be editing that journal, but what you suggest seems eminently appropriate, to what its purchasers must by now expect.

You must make me another visit here some time when you find it possible.

Yours sincerely
