

3rd September, 1957.

Dear Mr. Todd,

Thanks for your note. I shall be sailing for the States on the 12th of this month so may I suggest that when the gown and its container have served their purpose you should consign them to me at Gonville and Caius College where they can await my return.

I know my colleagues at Caius would like to see the portrait before it is exhibited, as you propose, next year; probably they would like to find a place for it ^{in Hall or Conventicle Room} during the winter term. I expect to be in England again before the end of January and shall be, of course, very much interested to see what progress has been made by them in this business.

Yours sincerely,
